3.1 Advantages of Snapchat

First and foremost, Snapchat can enrich the monotonous life. In response to the filters and editing options are out-right silly and creative, you can warp your head, add a hat or mustache, or even swap your head with a friend. Furthermore, you can also speed up, slow down and even reverse a video. Providing a change for people to express their creativity and also sometimes poke fun at yourself or your friends make to gaffes.

Apart from this, people are allowed to share their personal feelings through Snapchat. It has long been lauded as “the finest camera of secret”, trapping into the content of Snapchat is temporary, the snaps will disappear at most after 24 hours, giving people the ability to send content that normally would not post on other media networks. Knowing that the best medicine to alleviate sadness, worrying, etc is resorting to shave, by utilizing Snapchat, users can without any security concerns but share their own feelings.

More importantly, the invention of snapchat has strengthened the relationship among people. It is undeniable that, seldom do most, if not all, of the netizens have text communication with people, even our families, as we don’t have anything to talk about. Be that as it may, Snapchat, provide some alternatives to have interactions with the others. Except for having something crucial to mention, people can use Snapchat to share their daily life, as a result, their relationship is mounting.

3.2 Disadvantages

It has always been said that the cyber world is replete with danger, hence, some scammers take advantage of the loophole of snapchat, defraud the teenagers of paying money.

Worse still, despite the fact that Snapchat is beneficial to our communication, there is a pit ball. No matter teenagers or adults can easily get addiction into Snapchat, sacrificing other things, ruin their life.
